The tremendous Jim Farley has been playing ducks and drakes with the stamp situation again, and while I suppose it gives him something to do, I fail to see where these haphazard manipulations are of much value to the postal-paying public. There are, I expect, certain rewards to the Farley ego—which seems to expand with the passage of time—and, too, he manages to make things difficult for the philatelists. What astounds me is this: While he's about it, instead of Jefferson superceding Washington on the three-cent stamp, why not F. D. R.—or better yet, his own moon-like phys? As long as he's handing out the honors where he believes the honors to rest, why not be completely honest and give us a visual demonstration of the superiority of the followers of the jackass? (I believe he would, too, if the law permitted the likeness of a living person on United States Stamps.) Seriously: While I'm the last person in the world to wave the flag unnecessarily, and while I believe that the youth of the land would be a lot better off with a bit of history de-bunking, there remains the fact that G. Washington was, after all, the "Father of His Country" in more than one sense of the word; he was undoubtedly a "regular" guy and not the sanctimonious hypocrite the elementary history books would have us believe, and, as such, he is entitled to the place of honor in the stamp series that he has enjoyed for lo these many years. In fact, the relegation of the Washington features to a lesser stamp smacks of the arrogance of fascism; and I doubt not that the postmaster general feels that plenty of votes and a big white horse would fit him to carry on here as other more-than-self-sufficient individuals have—and are—carrying on elsewhere in this troubled world. You may have arrived at the conclusion that my personal esteem for the Democratic national chairman is not soaring very high, and if that is your conclusion, you have hit the nail right on the head. Mind you, I have no particular quarrel with the administration; it has done as well as any administration would have done under the circumstances—perhaps better. But the czar of the postal service affects me much as would a guy who drove his car down the center of the highway—straddling the white line, so to speak, and to h— with the rest of the motoring public.

It begins to look as though our local chamber of commerce has finally dug itself out of the sand-trap, and is preparing to go places. The decision of that body to raise the dues ante for business and professional men to five dollars is a good indication of progress within the organization, and will give the boys the nucleus of a fund that has hitherto been lacking. The old guard that supported the chamber of commerce in years gone by did a good job—when they could get a quorum to meetings—but they seldom had the price of a postage stamp in the treasury; and its pretty discouraging to attempt community progress with a disinterested personnel and no funds. That the present group is "going to town" is ably demonstrated by the eclat with which members secured underwriting for the preliminary expenses of the proposed sewer set-up.

I'd like to close these remarks with a bouquet of poison ivy for my pet peeve, Herr Hitler. Since last I rapped out a column, Der Fury has been very active, and has bitten off a nice morsel for Reich, all laved with the juicy juice of Jew-bait. Well, I hope the morsel chokes him and if it doesn't, the next one will—if we can believe "once England and Russia.

WORK ON NEW DRYER UNIT STARTS SOON

Pouring of concrete for the two-tunnel unit to be added to the Campbell cooperative dehydrator will be started this week, according to Henry Griffoul, San Jose dehydrator builder, who has the contract. This will increase the capacity of the plant 50 per cent.

Preparation of the ground has been under way for this work, and the construction of the warehouse to be built over the dehydrator.

Engineer William Lotz of Santa Clara states that plans for the building will be open for bids probably inside of a week.

Two-Piano Recital At San Jose Civic 'Aud' Friday Night

The San Jose Concert Series opened last October with the Yehudi Menuhin Concert and it closes Friday night with the famous two-piano pair, Pierre Luboshutz and Nemenoff, who play in the Civic Auditorium, San Jose, in a recital beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

The program offered by the two skilled musicians is one that would delight the most discriminating musician or the young student. It includes the "Overture to the Magic Flute," Mozart; "Now Comes the Gentle Savior," J. S. Bach; "Sonata in G," J. C. Bach; "Scherzo from Midsummer Night's Dream," Mendelssohn; "Variations on a Theme by Haydn," Brahms; "Invitation to the Dance," Weber; "Oriental," Cui; "Bumble Bee," Rimsky-Korsokoff; "Valse Tzigane," Levitzki; "Petrouchka," Stravinsky; "Carmen Fantasy," Chasins.

It will be noted that one section of the program is made up of Russian composers. Both Luboshutz and Nemenoff are Russian, and of old musical families.

Students are showing great interest in the privilege of choosing their seats from any section in the house for this coming piano concert.

To accommodate the Campbell public, a box office handling San Jose Concert Series tickets has been opened in Shadle's Drug Store, Campbell.

Comedy Farce, Cantata Planned By High Students

Under the direction of Miss Gladys Gibson, five students selected from the speech arts class of the Campbell high school, are working on a one-act farce comedy, "Thank You, Doctor," to be presented on a joint music and dramatic program April 1.

Probation Officer Guest Speaker at Kiwanis Meeting

Max Watson, county probation officer who was introduced by Axel Granstrom, at the Kiwanis meeting Tuesday, presented the work of the probation department in a unique way. They can then see how their judgment agrees with the decision of the judge when the case is really considered in court. There are 24 alternative actions, restitution, probation, fines, jail sentences, prison terms and combinations.

Next Tuesday's will be an evening meeting with the champion 130 basketball team as guests of the club and the co-champion unlimiteds, Coach Noddin's guests. Library Patrons to Benefit by Increased Hours of Service

Patrons of the Campbell library are to have greatly increased library hours, as the new schedule is: every week-day afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, except Friday which will be 12 to 5. The evening hours remain unchanged: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday, 7 to 9.

County Librarian, Mrs. Singleary had a corps of workers at the local branch last week, renovating books and cataloging gift books.

A pleasing growth in the circulation of the library has been noted in recent weeks, and Mrs. Singleary is sending out a new supply of books.

Complaints of patrons that they have not been able to get new request books is largely accounted for by the reduction of library appropriations, but conditions are somewhat improved and the Campbell branch will benefit thereby proportionately.

Coup Amazes World

STRIKING with startling rapidity Adolf Hitler's motorized army crossed the Austrian frontier, seized Vienna, forced Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg to resign, and placed a full-fledged Nazi administration in command of the Austrian government.

Jittery European governments were thrown into a panic as they learned of the German leader's astounding coup. Britain and France sent Hitler identical protests against the Austrian invasion, warning of grave reactions, and several other powers were reported to have joined in the protest.

In Washington, Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced a hands off policy toward the European crisis, and noted leaders gave their opinion that there was no immediate danger of a general war, although they regarded the present situation as highly dangerous. By a unanimous vote, the House of Representatives began consideration of the billion dollar naval expansion bill.

Hitler's Austrian coup was a demonstration of the rapidity of modern armed forces. In less than twelve hours, 50,000 picked troops had advanced into Austrian territory and had forced the fall of the Schuschnigg government. At 10:15 o'clock at night the first mobile units crossed the border, at 1:15 in the morning the advance guard seized the Vienna police and telegraph stations and clamped down a rigid censorship. Complete surprise marked the movement. This was in contrast to Germany's movements in 1914 when five days were required for her armies to enter Belgium.

Faced with overwhelming forces, Schuschnigg broadcast the following message to the Austrian people:

"The President of the republic has received from the (German) Reichsfuehrer and chancellor an ultimatum demanding that his own candidate be appointed head of a new Austrian government.

"President Miklas asked me to tell you that the policy of the Austrian government is to recede from force so that no German blood shall be shed.

"We have, therefore, given orders to our army that if it has occasion to meet German troops our soldiers will retreat.

"I yield to brute force. We must avoid bloodshed. Our troops have been ordered to retire before German troops and await further developments.

"May God protect Austria."

It was announced the plebiscite Schuschnigg had called for Sunday to permit the people to vote on whether the country would remain independent or submit to Nazi rule had been called off. The plebiscite had been denounced by the Nazis as a violation of Austria's agreement with Germany.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Hitler's personal representative in the Austrian cabinet, assumed the post of chancellor and a new cabinet composed of Nazis was announced.

Meanwhile, Italy's reaction to the German coup was watched with interest, and it was believed to have placed a heavy strain on the Rome-Berlin accord. In 1934 Italy massed troops on the border to prevent Hitler's intervention in Austria, and preservation of the latter's independence has been a major point in Italian diplomacy. However, in view of the new accord existing between Italy and Germany, Mussolini will be forced to abandon either Austria or Germany, and since he has not completed negotiations with Great Britain and having few other European ties, he will be left in virtual isolation should he break with Hitler. Unverified reports stated Italian troops were being rushed to the Brenner Pass, gateway between Italy and Austria.

In London, stock market prices slumped as the coup became public news. Despite the strong terms in Britain's note to Hitler, it is believed in some quarters that a deal has been made with Hitler, whereby the latter has been allowed a free hand in Central Europe in exchange for renouncing claims to colonies.

France, already in the throes of internal disorders, and without a cabinet, stood helplessly by. Premier-Designate Blum hurried consultations with political leaders striving to rally support, and to combine the various opposing factions into a united group. Reverberations in Czechoslovakia of Nazi power in Austria was the chief concern in France, although the cabinet meeting in Prague was said to be considering the situation calmly. Reports from Bratislava, on the

TVA Pot Boils

DETERMINED to get the "low down" on the controversy among the directors of the Tennessee Valley authority, President Roosevelt summoned to the White House Chairman Arthur E. Morgan and his colleagues, David Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan. It was believed in Washington that if they could not compose their differences he might ask all of them to resign.

Upon the outcome of this conference depended the action of congress leaders in relation to the resolution calling for a senatorial investigation of the entire TVA setup, sponsored by Senators Bridges of New Hampshire and King of Utah, and Senator Norris' proposal that the inquiry be conducted by the federal trade commission.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina put forward the suggestion, liked by many, that a single administrator be substituted for the three-man board of TVA directors, this one man to be selected by a joint committee of congress.

Norris thought this plan had good features but would prefer a board of three business executives, who, in his opinion, would be more capable of administering the project than engineers, lawyers or other experts.

Bridges engaged in hot debate with administration senators. He defended his investigation resolution in a long speech in which he made detailed charges against the TVA administration and characterized Lilienthal as a "Hitler" seeking to assert dictatorial powers over the Tennessee valley.

Diplomats Shifted

SHIFTING our diplomatic representatives in Latin America, President Roosevelt sent to the senate these nominations:

Meredith Nicholson of Indiana, now minister to Venezuela, transferred to Nicaragua.

Boaz Long of New Mexico, now minister to Nicaragua, transferred to Ecuador.

Antonio C. Gonzalez of New York, now minister to Ecuador, transferred to Venezuela.

Hoover Sees Hitler

FORMER President Herbert Hoover, in Europe to study conditions, had a long talk in Berlin with Adolf Hitler, who expounded his views on world politics, and was entertained by other Nazi notables. At the close of his two-day visit in the German capital Mr. Hoover said only that he is "even more reinforced in his belief that progress in America rests in the principles of intellectual liberty and spiritual freedom, a system of free economy regulated to prevent abuse, and popular government."

Wheeler in Action

SENATOR WHEELER of Montana took the lead in opposing the bill for a reorganization of the executive branch of the government, and the debate took on many of the features of the senate battle over the Supreme court enlargement measure last year.

Supporting the reorganization bill warmly were Senator Byrnes of South Carolina and others who backed the ill-fated court scheme.

Wheeler said that if congress approves the measure it ought to close up shop and go home. He was assailing the provision of the bill authorizing the President to transfer, regroup, consolidate, or abolish any government bureau or agency or the functions thereof.

"We have got to recognize the fact," said Wheeler, "that under Democratic institutions there is sometimes inefficiency in government. Certainly there can be more efficiency, although it is not always obtained, under dictatorships."

"The American people have got to recognize that it is necessary for them to pay the price in order to maintain their liberties. I say to the senate that it is far better that we maintain the bureau now have than it is to turn over dictatorial powers to the President of the United States and admit to the world that the congress of the United States, overwhelmingly Democratic in the house and in the senate, is incompetent to function."

Byrnes said that Wheeler was imputing dictatorship ambitions to President Roosevelt and that he even feared for the safety of the republic. In replying to this, Wheeler intimated that he believed the republic would survive despite President Roosevelt.

Family Firm Tax Killed

GREATLY to the surprise of the majority leaders, the house, considering the tax bill, adopted an amendment offered by McCormack of Massachusetts, striking out the $45,000,000 surtax on family or closely-held corporations. This so-called "third basket" levy was eliminated by a vote of 180 to 124.

Then the representatives voted to add 25 cents a gallon to the tax on distilled liquors.

Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee and Fred Vinson, who wrote the bill, vainly warned the representatives that the President would veto the measure unless that surtax were included. Democratic members of the committee were hurriedly called together to study possible "replacement" taxes to make up for the loss in revenue due to this change, and treasury officials pondered new sources of revenue.

But Doughton, sore from his first defeat, said the house would go ahead with passage of the bill and leave the problem up to the senate. McCormack and his supporters—all the Republicans and many Southern Democrats—contended the surtax would penalize family-owned corporations, ultimately forcing them into the hands of monopolists.

War Pact Rumors

DESPITE official denials, the rumors that the United States and Great Britain have entered into a secret war alliance persisted and were given credence when the house of commons was told by the parliamentary undersecretary of the admiralty that there was an agreement between the two nations under which the American navy will be permitted to use the facilities of the great British naval base at Singapore on payment for services given. This privilege has been extended to no other nation.

Secretary of State Hull would not confirm the existence of the agreement, but department officials admitted an understanding had been reached and that it would greatly increase the potential strength of our navy in the Far East. Our navy base in the Philippines has no drydocks large enough to accommodate battleships.

Cleveland's Clean-Up

CHARGES were made in Cleveland by Judge Alva R. Corlett that Chicago labor leaders raised $25,000 in a plot to bribe a woman juror in the trial of Don A. Campbell and John E. McGee, alleged labor racketeers. The two men had just been convicted of extortion. They were sentenced by Judge Corlett to serve from one to five years in the penitentiary and were taken there at once to block their efforts toward release on appeal bonds.

The judge said he was informed of the bribery plot by Elliot Ness, Cleveland safety director, whose investigation resulted in the indictment of Campbell and McGee.

We Take Two Islands

UNDER orders from the President, Secretary of the Interior Ickes added to the island possessions of the United States which he supervises two little bits of land in the Pacific—Canton and Enderby islands, in the Phoenix archipelago. Their value is as stopping places for transoceanic air flights to Australia.

Included in the President's order are lands in the Antarctic first visited by Admiral Byrd and other Americans.

WHAT TO EAT AND WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses PROTEINS—The Foods That You Cannot Live Without

Eminent Food Authority Explains Why No Protein Means No Life—Describes the Kind and Amount Required for the Best Growth in Children—Good Resistance, Vigor and Endurance in Adults.

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York.

FOOD is—and always has been—the central problem of life. But only in recent years has its true power been revealed, as a result of scientific investigation.

Fortunately, we now know what constitutes sound nutrition, and it is possible for every homemaker to plan meals that will enable her family to eat their way to health.

Topping the list of food essentials are the proteins. The Dutch chemist, Mulder, who hit upon this name, made a wise choice, for it means "to take first place." And certainly the proteins are first in importance. For they are the stuff of which our bodies are built. Without them, there would be no life.

Every man, woman and child has a fundamental need for protein, because it is an essential component of every living cell and makes up a large part of the solids of a muscle cell. Evidently, a great many of the glandular principles and substances, which control the functions of the body, are also protein in character.

Protein is the only food element that contains nitrogen, and next to water, nitrogen is the chief constituent of the human body.

Protein Builds Bodies.
A new born baby weighs, on an average, from 7 to 7½ pounds, and the adult into which it grows may weigh 20 to 30 times as much. The vast amount of tissue necessary to construct a man is built chiefly from protein.

Once the adult body is built, however, protein is not required for the growth of new tissues, except under certain conditions, such as during pregnancy, when one is recovering from a wasting illness, or when an athlete is in training and the muscles are increasing in size.

Keeps the Body in Repair.
There is, however, a maintenance requirement for protein which continues throughout life, and which applies to both children and adults. For the body may be compared to a machine, on which it is necessary to make allowance for the wear and tear of parts. Protein is the only substance that will rebuild the millions of cells which each day cease to function.

Thus, we see that protein performs two vital services—First, it builds new tissues; second, it repairs worn-out tissues.

The Building Stones of the Body.
Protein is found in many different foods, but unfortunately, not all proteins are equally valuable. That is because protein is a very complex substance, resulting from the union of 22 or more simpler substances containing nitrogen.

For Your Scrapbook

THIS issue contains the second of a series of articles entitled "What to Eat and Why," written by the noted food authority, C. Houston Goudiss.

In these articles, which appear weekly in this newspaper, Mr. Goudiss discusses in a clear, interesting and understandable manner the everyday problems of food as related to the building and maintaining of health in children, young people and adults, as well.

Mr. Goudiss, author, lecturer and radio speaker, is known throughout the country as the man who knows food "from soil to serving, from table to tissue." The homemaker will want to clip and save each one of these articles for the valuable information that is contained therein.

a minimum of 44 grams of protein every day.

Eskimos eat two or three times as much protein as most dwellers in the temperate zone, but that is because other foods are scarce. In the tropics, on the other hand, the consumption of protein is often not more than half that of the temperate zone.

An Adequate Protein Ration.
Milk and eggs are among the finest forms of protein, and they should have an especially important part in the diet, not only of the growing child but of invalids, prospective mothers, and the mother who is nursing a baby. If the choice must be between milk and eggs, milk should have first place because it is usually cheaper in proportion to the food value it supplies.

In planning the family dietary, a safe rule to keep in mind is to include in the daily diet: a quart of milk for every child, a pint for each adult; one egg, one serving of meat, fish or chicken, one serving of another protein food such as cheese, dried peas or beans, or a main dish made with nuts.

You can achieve wide variety and still provide an adequate protein ration within the limits of this rule. For milk may be served as a beverage, in soups, puddings, and as cream sauce. Eggs may likewise be varied in their method of preparation, or concealed in other foods. There are many fine meats, and the number of ways in which fresh, canned, frozen or dried fish can be served is legion.

Both cheese and nuts make sandwiches, salads and desserts, as well as main course dishes. Peas, beans and lentils can appear as soup, mock roast or croquettes. Grain products, which include cereals, macaroni and bread, may appear in any course in the meal.

In planning menus, always keep before you the ideal that an adequate amount of first class protein makes a first class meal, whereas an inadequate amount may lead to stunted growth, functional nervous diseases, lessened efficiency and the earlier approach of old age.

In choosing proteins to feed your family—remember that they take first place among foods, and that upon their wise choice rests your future welfare, your destiny—your life!

Polishing Ethics—Pro and Con

When fine furniture leaves the shop of the manufacturer, its finish has been professionally treated, to preserve its beauty—prolong its endurance. And from that time on, this furniture is best maintained by a quality light-oil furniture polish—first, on the shop floor of the furniture dealer—and then in the home. This is acknowledged and accepted as the best way to heighten its beauty—lengthen its life! But unfortunately, many housewives coat the finish of their furniture and woodwork with various shellacs and veneers—using them as a substitute for a fine oil polish and rubbing. And what a great mistake this is! For these coatings form a false finish over the true finish of the furniture; and rosin and other destructive elements in them dry out the wood—toughen it—leave a sticky residue. When many layers have been applied, they accumulate as a crust over the finish, clogging it and clouding the natural beauty of the grain. This is the slack way to care for furniture. If the home-maker really "cares for" her furniture, she will frequently rub on a reputable light-oil polish, to preserve it—keep it lastingly lovely!

"You are to proceed alone, senator," announced their leader. "It is not well we should be seen, yet be assured we will be watching—and our horses are much faster than yours. You have only to follow the barranca to reach your goal."

The sun was almost setting when he came into full view of the hacienda. He could have made a short-cut across a stubble field, but he chose to stick close to the barranca until he should come upon the rope bridge. There was no need to pause to examine it since he had often crossed the same sort of thing before. Swerving he rode straight for the eastern gate, confident his bedraggled appearance together with that of his scarecrow of a horse would protect him better than subterfuge. He was right and a few minutes later was being admitted by Van Suttart and Arnaldo since Joyce, recognizing his stocky figure while it was still afar, had decided to receive him at her leisure and against her own background.

"You're Mr. Blackadder, aren't you?" said Dirk.

"Yes," said Blackadder, dismounting heavily. "How did you know?"

"I'm from the American embassy," said Dirk. "My name is Van Suttart and this is Arnaldo who happened to witness your capture. I congratulate you on your escape."

"Huh?" grunted Blackadder. "Oh, yes. What about Joyce Sewell? She's here, isn't she?"

"I'll take you to her," said Dirk, "but she thought you'd be glad of a chance for a shave and a wash first."

"I haven't a razor," grumbled Blackadder, "and nothing to change into."

"I can lend you a razor," said Dirk; "as for linen, you're too big for me, but we can fix that too if you'll put up with stuff from the hacienda store. Come along."

He led him to a room near his own, showed him the bath, provided him with shaving equipment and promised to send up an assortment of shirts and underwear from the store. Scarcity of windows insured any Spanish habitation against curiosity on the part of the outer world but knocks the props from under individual privacy. Since every apartment depends for light and ventilation on high doors opening on a central patio the price of seclusion is apt to be darkness and suffocation. On the way to do his errand Dirk saw Joyce standing expectantly in her boudoir-office-sitting room and pretended not to see her—the sort of thing he had been doing for two long days and longer nights. On his way back she intercepted him.

"Dirk, come in here, please."

"What for?" he asked blankly, then remembered he was supposed to be a diplomat. "Forgive me. Of course I'll come in."

"Quit being polite!" said Joyce sharply. "I hate it. It isn't you and you've been doing it for two days. It's spoiled our rides. It's made me unhappy. For a while you were Dirk Van Suttart, a lovable human being. But now what are you? A shell, varnish, floor wax, veneer! I dislike you."

"That goes for me too," said Dirk hotly. "I dislike actresses who change their leading men but always use the same old stage set."

"So that's it," said Joyce, "that's really it! I couldn't believe it. Half my mind told me that was the matter but the other half called the first half a fool. Why shouldn't I have taken Adan to the roof? Why? What conceivable reason?"

"You're asking me what business it was of mine," said Dirk dully. "and I'll answer you. None—none at all. What it did, though was to wake me up. I felt miserable. I thought it would pass by morning, but it didn't." He looked up at her. "I—I hate feeling miserable."

"Oh, Dirk—poor Dirk! If you could only know what happened! He covered his nose and mouth with a silk handkerchief."

"Why?" demanded Dirk, bewildered. "What for?"

"On account of the night air."

They looked at each other and their eyes began to dance. Another second and they would have burst into laughter, but unfortunately Dirk's thoughts veered into another channel. There was something he had been wanting to do for his own personal satisfaction for what already seemed a long time and while her attention was still diverted he took her chin in his left hand and studied the tip of her nose as if it had a smudge. Her startled and puzzled eyes should have warned him but somehow her half parted lips seemed more important. He leaned over quickly but kissed them slowly.

Joyce had not imagined she would mind being kissed by Dirk, yet the light in her eyes dimmed and went out. Instead of warning she turned cold—so cold he released her and stood back. A sense of loss oppressed her. What had happened? Suddenly she knew. He had been selfish, casual. It wasn't only that she had been taken for granted; it went deeper—so much deeper. He had destroyed something they both should have guarded.

"Dirk," she said, "some day you'll grow up and learn how foolish it is to cheapen another person. I believe people can make beauty for themselves, not out of whole cloth perhaps, but when they have a fair start. Friends are what you make them. Love is what you make it. Just now I think you yourself are too small to know what I'm talking about."

He threw up his head rebelliously and made an impulsive forward movement, but something in her steady eyes stopped him in time. He turned and walked blindly toward his room.

CHAPTER XIII

Blackadder recoiled from his first glance in a mirror in five days. He felt grateful to that young Van Suttart for saving him from showing himself to Joyce looking like a tramp. Being a stickler for daily shaving he hadn't seen his beard in years and was shocked to find it spotted with gray. He took joy in getting rid of it, in steaming in a hot bath and in slipping into underwear and shirt, coarse but clean, supplied from the hacienda store. In spite of his wrinkled suit he felt in better humor than at any moment since his departure from Elsinboro. Joyce was a fool, he reflected complacently. What a chance she had missed by giving him this opportunity for recuperation! In his mind he credited her with tactical error number one.

But the moment he was shown into her presence he wondered if and where he had gone wrong. Already dressed in one of her flowered frocks, she turned in the chair at her desk but did not rise. She looked unbelievably cool—cool inside and out—as she passed slow eyes over his face and figure. Here was a man out of her past, accurately remembered, and he had not changed; yet he was distant, divided from her by a world. As for Blackadder, he beheld a person he did not know, a person he felt he might never know. He had been thinking of her as a young girl—headstrong, violent in her reactions, but young, unformed and consequently malleable. Now he stared at something as fixed as a portrait; alive yet baffling, impenetrable. Instantly his own plan of attack went into reverse with an almost audible stripping of mental gears and as an added humiliation he discovered he would have to speak first or not at all.

"Hardly what you'd call a warm welcome, Joyce."

"No," she admitted; then continued in an even tone. "Why have you come and what do you want?"

He was at a loss for an answer. That a whipper-snapper should outface him roused his always unmanageable temper and abandoning the sensible course he had just determined upon he foolishly reverted to a prepared speech—prepared and rehearsed for days.

"You know why I'm here. You're a willful and ungrateful girl. You bit the hand that fed you—fed you for years. Your escapade has cost me time and money and caused real anguish to Irma, as fine a woman as ever drew breath. But now it's a lot more serious. You're like a child playing with matches around a keg of powder and thinking it's funny! Get this, Joyce: if you don't go back with me at once you may find yourself responsible, silly as it may sound, for thousands of deaths. Fortunately you're still a minor. Do you hear? A minor."

"Yes, yes," said Joyce quietly, "you don't have to shout. I heard you—a minor. Well, what of it?"

"Your stepmother has appointed me your guardian and by the laws of the state of New York—" He stopped, halted by a clear laugh.

"Excuse me," said Joyce, controlling herself, "but that sounded so funny. The state of New York, Elsinboro, you, my stepmother—it's all thousands of miles and a hundred years away. There you were Mr. Blackadder, weren't you? Mr. Helm Blackadder, and a power in a small way. Well, here you're nothing. Unless you find some work to do around the place you haven't the right to eat, breathe, sleep or live."

"You talk to me like that," exploded Blackadder, "a man twice your age who—"

"Please don't shout," interrupted Joyce. "Try to realize it's only because I hate bloodshed that you weren't shot. That's easy enough to understand, but what about this? If you had been it wouldn't have affected the course of my present life in the slightest—it wouldn't even have rated an added inconvenience."

"Are you crazy?" gasped Blackadder.

"Perhaps," said Joyce, "but that isn't what matters, is it? What stands for a whole lot more than you seem able to comprehend is that I'm mistress of La Barranca."

"Anything I can do to help, Joyce?" asked Dirk, sauntering in from the balcony.

"Oh, Dirk, I'm glad you came. Do you mind showing Mr. Blackadder around for a while? I'm going to be busy until dinner time."

Blackadder, though annoyed at the interruption, promptly saw the value of a chance to sound out Van Suttart. Whose ally would he turn out to be? What was he doing here anyway? How had he got here and when? He accompanied him with alacrity, glad of a chance besides to reassemble his shaken wits, and to all his questions except the first and most important obtained ready answers. At the end of half an hour he could murmur: "So that cable of mine is really all the authority you have for being away from your post?"

"Why, yes, I guess so, yes," said Dirk, a little troubled by the tone of the statement. "I hadn't thought of it in exactly that way."

"Now that you have and that I'm here," continued Blackadder, "it sort of does away with any reason for you to continue hanging around, doesn't it?"

"Eh?" said Dirk, beginning to wake up; then he laughed. "Well, there's certainly an answer to that! The only method of departure at present happens to be ride or walk a hundred miles."

"Not necessarily," said Blackadder. "I have reason to think my driver may come to his senses and return; there's also the possibility he may, have reported to the ambassador. Say I manage to get a car. Would you be inclined to help me persuade Miss Sewell to leave at once?"

"I'm not sure," said Dirk, frowning thoughtfully. "I'd have to talk to her about it first."

"That's an extraordinary stand for you to take."

"Why?"

"If you can't see it," said Blackadder, "I won't try to show you. For your own good I might point out again that your justification for absence from your post terminated with my arrival."

"I can't blame you for being puzzled, Mr. Blackadder," said Dirk slowly, "since I'm a bit that way myself. I don't know quite how it's come about but somehow I sort of don't seem to give a tinker's dam about my post."

"Why?"

"If you can't see it," said Blackadder, "I won't try to show you. For your own good I might point out again that your justification for absence from your post terminated with my arrival."

"Why?"

"If you can't see it," said Blackadder, "I won't try to show you. For your own good I might point out again that your justification for absence from your post terminated with my arrival."

Blackadder snorted, stared at him, then turned away with a shrug. Here certainly was no ally and he dismissed him from mind. But not for long. At dinner, where Blackadder sat in brooding silence, Dirk was the mainspring that kept the ball of conversation rolling. He egged Dog Jorge and Arnaldo into one of their perfunctory political discussions, then bargained with the latter to alternate with him at playing a dance tune, Adan to go first. The challenge accepted, Dirk fairly forced Joyce to dance, but when it came his turn it developed he scarcely knew one note from another.

Joyce had been puzzled by his high spirits, in violent contrast to the gloom which had enshrouded him from the moment of the rebuke she had administered. It wasn't the kiss she had minded nor its rough-and-ready manner, not even its humiliating assumption. The truth was she had been hurt rather than angry and had spoken straight from the heart in protest against a blow struck at some vague beauty, still in the bud yet present to them both. But no sooner did he slip his arm around her to dance than his strategy throughout dinner became evident.

"This is the only way I could think of," he whispered, "to be alone with you. To tell you I'm sorry—sorrower than I ever was about anything else in my life. You were quite right to say what you did. Please don't stay away from me. Please give me a chance. Please go for a ride tomorrow as though nothing had happened."

"Will you promise on your word of honor—your given word I believe you called it—never to do it again?"

"No," he said after some deliberation, "I can't honestly promise any such thing. I'm through with giving my word. All I can say is I'll do my best—my level best."

It was all Joyce could do to keep from laughing and what stopped her, strangely enough, was his sincerity—the very thing that made him comical. They rode the next morning; to Blackadder's disgust they were gone for hours. After their return came lunch and the inevitable siesta. Even then Blackadder got no chance for a further talk with Joyce, for she was busy with the myriad details tossed up as steadily as a playing fountain by a family of 500 souls. How long was this sort of thing to keep up? He could imagine himself hanging around for days without ever securing five minutes free of interruption. The dinner was an exact replica of that of the night before except that his surly abstraction was more profound—so dense it gradually spread its wet blanket over everybody else. At last Joyce surrendered, crushed into submission by a prolonged silence.

"I'm afraid you're having a miserable time, Mr. Blackadder. What can we do to cheer you up?"

Helm raised somber eyes to her face. "You know the answer to that, Joyce," he said with overwhelming simplicity. "All I ask from these gentlemen and yourself is an hour's uninterrupted talk with you."

Joyce knew when she was fairly caught. "I'm sure that can be arranged any time you like," she said, making the best of it. "Shall we say in my sitting room in half an hour?"

"Splendid," said Blackadder, and promptly returned affable.

To the amazement of everyone, though he had appeared deaf to such talk as there had been, he took up a discussion where Don Jorge and Arnaldo had left off, enumerated the omissions made by each and arrived at an unanswerable conclusion astonishing to both.

Boulder Dam's Waters Effacing Old Salt Mine That Thrived as Far Back as 500 A. D.

Waters of Lake Mead, slowly piling up behind Boulder dam, are wiping out an industry which thrived as far back as 500 A. D., writes a Las Vegas, Nev., United Press correspondent.

The old St. Thomas salt mine, with its mountain of salt 300 feet high, said by scientists to have been worked by Pueblo Indians as early as the start of the Fifth century, is disappearing. Residents are wondering if the great pile of salt will contaminate the waters to any extent.

Several years ago the salt mine attracted scientists from afar when evidences were discovered that man, in the dawn of history, had engaged in industry there. Digging tools, fashioned from rocks tied together with leather thongs, were dug up. They proved, said archaeologists, that the mine was the base of one of the principal workings of the Pueblo Indians who inhabited the territory from about 500 A. D. until about 1200 A. D.

The more modern history of the mine started in our own early Western days when the first of the Bonelli family, emigrating from Switzerland, settled in the St. Thomas section and became influential in its development.

There the Bonellis, according to old timers, organized the Virgin River Salt company and operated the mine and a salt mill for many years. Finally the Virgin river company died, and the mine was worked intermittently by residents of the area. During the last few years thousands of tons of salt have been taken out.

The old mine lies at the base of the salt mountain, but the rising waters of Lake Mead have covered the road over which thousands of tons have been hauled through fourteen centuries.

Historic Hoaxes

© Western Newspaper Union.

A President Hoaxed

IT ISN'T often that hoaxers dare trifle with the dignity of a President of the United States. But it happened at least once in history.

In 1901 President Theodore Roosevelt was scheduled to visit Charleston, S. C., and speak at the exposition there. Several formal receptions were planned for the distinguished guest by the citizens of Charleston who were looking forward to the visit of a President of the United States for the first time since before the War Between the States. And then a woman gave them the shock. Then a woman gave them the shock of their lives!

She was a social climber, a "lion hunter" who was determined to add T. R. to her collection of celebrities just to pay off the society women of Charleston who had snubbed her. So when Roosevelt came ashore at the South Battery after an excursion around the harbor, she managed to reach his side and asked if he would stop at her house for a cup of tea.

The President thanked her but explained that the committee had requested him to accept no personal invitations. Thereupon she played her ace. She wanted him to come to please an old negro who had been the faithful servant of her family since slavery days. "He would die happy if only such a thing could come to him as handing a cup of tea to his President," she said.

So Roosevelt accepted her invitation for the sake of pleasing the old slave. The women of Charleston were enraged when they learned how the "climber" had triumphed over them. But the men were less enraged than amused at the woman's cleverness. It seems that she had come from the West and her family had never owned a slave. The "faithful old servant" had been hired for this special occasion!

Men in the Moon

THE first, and probably the greatest, of all American newspaper hoaxes appeared in the New York Sun in August, 1835. It was the invention of Richard Adams Locke and told how Sir John Herschel, the eminent British astronomer, had invented a telescope to find out if the moon was inhabited. He discovered that it was—by a kind of man, as well as by many other curious forms of animal and vegetable life, all of which were described in great detail.

Of course, the story caused a sensation. A party of scientists called at the Sun office to see the original accounts which were supposed to have been taken from the Edinburgh Journal of Science (a publication that existed only in Locke's imagination, also). It also fooled the other newspapers and when one of them, the Journal of Commerce, asked permission to reprint it, Locke confessed the hoax.

He then explained that it was written "as an elaborate satire upon the monstrous fabrications of the political press of the country and the various genera and species of its party editors," especially "a notorious foreigner who is the supervising editor of one of our largest morning newspapers." That was James Gordon Bennett, founder of the New York Herald, who had enraged the conservative papers of the day by his sensational methods which were making his paper such a success with the common people.

"A Notable Lawsuit"

JUST as some hopeful Americans will continue to search for Captain Kidd's "buried treasure," so will other credulous ones believe that John Jacob Astor's fortune was based upon a chest of gold and jewels which the famous pirate hid in a cave on an island off the coast of Maine; that Frederick Law Olmstead, Sr., who became the owner of the island, brought suit against the Astor family for $5,122,234.80; and that the suit was finally settled out of court for $2,000,000.

Some of them will tell you that they've actually seen the court papers in that famous lawsuit with the names of Joseph H. Choate as attorney for Olmstead and Elihu Root as attorney for the defendants. They probably have, for there are plenty of copies floating around.

The only trouble with the story is that it isn't so. The whole yarn was the concoction of that famous hoaxer, Franklin Harvey Head of Chicago, who first printed it in 1899 for the amusement of his friends. But thousands have heard it told as a true story, some of them believe that it's a piece of litigation that's still pending and many newspapers have printed it at one time or another as a great "behind the scenes" story. It's one of those "manufactured legends" that just won't be killed and stay dead!

The "Rosetta Stone"

A shapeless, broken slab of black basalt stone unlocked the secrets of 4,000 years of ancient Egyptian history. Known as the "Rosetta stone," it was discovered in 1799, inscribed in triplicate, in three languages, and from it the Egyptian alphabet was deciphered.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of "toxic" impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. WHAT HAS HAPPENED?

THE UNITED STATES contains six per cent of the world's area, and seven per cent of the world's population.

That seven per cent normally consumes 48 per cent of the world's coffee, 58 per cent of its tin, 56 per cent of its rubber, 21 per cent of its sugar, 72 per cent of its silk, 42 per cent of its pig iron, 47 per cent of its copper, and 69 per cent of its crude petroleum.

That seven per cent operates 60 per cent of the world's telephones and telegraphs, owns 80 per cent of its motor cars, grows 60 per cent of its cotton, and produces 70 per cent of its oil.

That seven per cent owns half the world's gold.

But that seven per cent, possessing such a giant share of the world's goods, can't keep its own house in order. Those are the figures that is the indictment of an English economist writing in The Sphere.

His conclusion, uncomfortable as it is, ought to strike home to every American. America has the means and the might to make the wheels of industry turn. America has the cotton, steel, wheat, copper, oil, and man-power to feed, clothe, and house her citizens like the kings of the earth.

America has the power! What has happened to the machine?

A STORM AND A ROMANCE

THE FICKLE FATES have been most unkind to a favored offspring! In quick succession Hollywood has taken two damaging body blows. First came March, roaring like a lion, to pour a foot of rain on streets and lots.

Then, with the mud hardly scraped from stages and floors, March, in a lamb-like mood brought a second blow. The romance Hollywood said could not happen—happened. Far from the rosy glow of the cinema capital, Greta Garbo and Leopold Stokowski found romance in an Italian village.

With Wallace Beery providing the comic relief, the dramatic friendship of the brilliant orchestra leader and the Swedish actress was revealed to the world from the pastoral quiet of Ravello's winding streets.

Two things couldn't happen, said Hollywood. But they happened.

STAMP-EDE!

FROM SAN DIEGO TO SANDS POINT, the nation's stamp-collectors are in a fighting mood, tempted to polish up grandfather's bayonet and put it to use.

Jim Farley has done it again! It's another stamp. George Washington has been denoted to a one-center to make way for Thomas Jefferson.

We shall miss the likeness of Washington on the three-cent stamps as much as any collector. We have been affixing his likeness to envelopes since time beyond memory. But matters could be far worse, though it's doubtful if we will get many of the collectors to agree with us.

Suppose the states had not joined to form a more perfect union back in 1787? Suppose we had today 48 separate states, and 48 separate Jim Farleys, each turning out new stamps as fast as a modern press turns out newspapers? And with each state slapping a terrific excise tax on every out-of-state letter entering its borders? But not only letters!

Those were the turbulent days when jealous Delaware slapped suffocating taxes on imports of New Jersey carrots, and New Jersey ruined Delaware farmers by slapping a suffocating tax right back on Delaware sugar beets.

But if disillusioned collectors think Mr. Farley's stamp-ede is already running off enough stamps to go around for 48 states, let them consider what California farmers are facing. Rep. Patman of Texas has a proposal in congress making it impossible to do store business in more than one state. This would deprive California of the national market it must have, and create 48 un-United states, each barring the other states' products.

Stamp collectors are lucky. They have only one Jim Farley to contend with! Now suppose they were California farmers, faced with the threat of contending with tax collectors in 47 other states.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

MANY AMERICANS are poorly clad. Why, then, an 18,000,000-bale cotton surplus? Perhaps as high as one-fourth of America is under-nourished. Why, then, so many high food prices?

Popped at President Roosevelt's head recently came this rapid-fire barrage of questions from a national consumers' group, hopeful of organizing consumers just as labor, business, and farmers are organized, and for the same reason—to secure their money's worth on their investment.

Many observers believe there is a fallacy in this program. Consumers are also wage-earners, businessmen, and farmers. How can they organize against themselves. Fewer observers, however, have taken the pains to point out that if consumers cannot thus gang up on themselves, this program needn't be flung in the ash-bin. Consumers' groups can find a job right up their alley if they devote themselves to analyzing, discussing, and combating all proposed and enacted legislation which would give wings to living costs. They'll find no dearth of such laws, masquerading as anti-monopoly measures, or whitewashed as "fair" trade acts.

Consumers cannot help themselves by trying to hoist themselves up by their own bootstraps. But they can help themselves, by striking out, with the potent blue pencil of their public disapproval, all measures which would bring them less for their money.

HOT CROSS BUNS
FRESH EVERY DAY

TASTE GOOD BAKERY

San Jose Pacific Bldg. & Loan Assn.

81 W. Santa Clara, San Jose. Phone Columbia 300.

Many people do not understand what a Building & Loan Association represents. A person with five, ten, fifteen or twenty-five dollars to set aside each month cannot accumulate a large estate in a day, a month, or a year, but a fixed sum each month to which is added liberal interest will obtain the goal he seeks. Today one out of every ten people in America has found Building & Loan the ideal investment. Are you looking for a dependable income? If so, turn to the San Jose Pacific Bldg. & Loan Association.

People are looking for safe investments and money loaned on the American home has proved to be safe. Can this be said of all investments? No security can possibly be better than the determination of the average citizen to own his home. Accounts up to and including $5,000 are fully insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Corp., an instrumentality of the United States Government. They are also in a position to finance the building of new homes and the refinancing of homes already built.

The officials of the San Jose Pacific Bldg. & Loan Assn. are progressive yet conservative and enjoy an enviable reputation for fair dealings. This pioneer firm was organized in 1885. They have assumed a very important place of financial stability in the surrounding territory. In this review we wish to congratulate the people of this section upon having such a worthy institution at hand and we suggest to our readers to get in touch with the San Jose Pacific Bldg. & Loan Assn. for saving. You may either call or write for full details.

Your transactions here aid in the upbuilding of the community as this Association is interested in the progress of our section and its presence here is essential to our welfare.

We desire to extend our congratulations to the San Jose Pacific Bldg. & Loan Assn. and its members for the good will they enjoy. We can recommend it with pleasure, knowing that all who have dealings here will be satisfied.

AMERICAN DAIRY CO.
Cottage Cheese, Milk, Ice Cream for the Lenten Menu

On the Corner of Santa Clara and 17th Street, San Jose. Phone Ballard 344 or 345.

This modern up-to-date dairy is one of the best known in this community. It is clean and sanitary in every particular. It is their endeavor to give the people the best milk and dairy products that can be had.

They buy their milk from the farmers of the surrounding territory. It is collected and brought to them in a most sanitary manner.

Their milk is pasteurized as soon as it reaches the plant. For this they have strictly modern machinery and their plant and equipment is immaculate.

Pasteurization of milk means to heat the milk to 145 degrees, holding it at that temperature for a given length of time and cooling it quickly. Thus the bacteria are eliminated and the qualities of the milk unharmed. If you have never seen this method of handling milk a visit to their plant will convince you it is the only way.

"A bottle of milk is a bottle of health," is an expression of today that is quite in order.

Everywhere health authorities are insisting that milk be served to school children. No need to worry about healthful foods when you use American Dairy products.

It is the policy of the American Dairy Co. not only to produce milk, cream, butter and ice cream that will meet with specified requirements, but a health product that only modern elaborate machinery and consideration for their product can produce.

The people of the community are indeed fortunate in having this popular dairy in this section.

CALIFORNIA TERMITE & FUNGI CONTROL CO.

Located At 970 Byerley Ave., San Jose, Scientifically Treat Buildings Infested With Termites — Have Saved Thousands Of Dollars For Property Owners In This Section Of The Country — Are State Licensed Operators, Offer Free Inspection And Estimates And A Three Year Written Guarantee With Every Job — Guarantee To Control Sugar Eating Ants For 6 Months With One Application — Under The Direction of B. R. Byrd, Pres. — Phone Columbia 2918, If No Answer Call Ballard 5080.

The California Termite and Fungi Control Co. is an invaluable aid to the preservation of property as they offer an efficient service in the control and extermination of termites.

This is the time of year to have buildings treated for termites as later in the season they swarm and multiply. While they are hidden at times they are always at work in eating through the floors, joists, sills and rafters. Treated before they get a big start, makes it easier to control the damage than later when they multiply so fast. This company will be glad to make a free inspection of your building and if there are no termites there they will readily tell you. All buildings should be inspected occasionally. They have been called all over the state and have saved owners of property damage that would have run into large figures.

It is a service of this kind that is doing much to make this part of the state a more desirable place in which to live. Aside from the comfort derived from their service they aid in the sanitation and the protection of the health and property of the people as it is well known that much of the disease of the country is carried around by insects and imparted to people with their sting and bite or simply by contact.

In making this review of our progress we are glad to call the attention of the people to The California Termite & Fungi Control Co. and compliment upon their success as well as the commercial work they are accomplishing in the way of sanitation and comfortable living conditions for the people and protecting their property from damage.

By BETTY BARCLAY

We have heard a great deal about father's full dinner pail, but how about the dinner pails and lunch boxes of millions of boys and girls now starting in for another term at school?

San Jose. Phone Ballard 8383

The success of this company in the many years of its existence has been due to the kind of people who are numbered in its membership, people who take a personal interest in its property and in their company's welfare. A call on their agents, will enlighten you on a great many risks covered and will convince you of the quality being insured as some of the finest homes, both new and old, and many fine school buildings of the county are now being insured by the Santa Clara County Fire Insurance company. There is no question about them being able to save the taxpayers money. The big job is to educate people along Mutual lines as so many erroneous statements are afloat regarding the argument of Stock versus Mutual Insurance. Ninety per cent of insurance premiums of all kinds paid in America today are to Mutual companies. Over 50 per cent of all the rural fire insurance in America is in Mutual companies like the Santa Clara County Insurance Co. of Santa Clara County. A list of Santa Clara county companies doing good over a period of years will certainly include the Santa Clara County Fire Insurance Co. of Santa Clara County. Its cash reserves are deposited in local banks and investments are made in Santa Clara county school district bonds. There is no better way to save money than to buy Santa Clara County Insurance and keep 25 to 60 per cent of the premium in your pocket and the balance in your Company's account in local banks.

Testifying before a senate investigating committee in Washington recently, Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime union, boldly came to the defense of Communism, although denying that he is a Communist.

Declared Curran "The Communists have done more for the workers of the industries of the country than any of the so-called and self-appointed liberal agencies existent to date." Later, the CIO leader again astounded the senate investigators with the frank admission that his union did not "inquire into the political beliefs" of its officers—a tacit admission, apparently, of the truth of recent charges that Communists have seized the reins in many of the CIO unions.

This much can be said for Curran's testimony. He was frank where others have been evasive. And American workers, having read his testimony, at least know which way the wind is blowing. If they find radical agitators "boring from within" and seeking control of their unions, they need not be surprised, for the welcome sign has been hung out and the door thrown open.

But American workers, if they have followed the course of Communism in Soviet Russia, may well question the truth of Curran's statement that the Communists "have done more for the workers" than any other agency. In Russia, today, Stalin holds the power of life and death over rich and poor alike; in Russia, workers have bartered their freedom for the promise of security—and now have neither. In Russia, workers work for wages that will not buy common necessities—and face the choice of swallowing their pride and continuing in serfdom, or facing trial in a Stalin-controlled court that makes a mockery of justice and that silences all complaints before the firing squad.

American workers—both on the farms and in the cities—need to take a look at Russia when they hear some of their leaders prate of the glories of Communism. For the funds for Communistic agitation in America come from Russia; the direction of the Communist movement comes from Russia. And Russia, instead of being the workers' state it has been pictured, is finally emerging in its true colors—a Fascist state, dominated by a dictatorship more ruthless than anything yet devised by Hitler or Mussolini.

Some of the "direct action" methods of the Communists already have appeared in many of the labor disputes incited by radical trouble-makers in America. "Beef squads" and thugs have been hired to intimidate American workmen who resisted needless strikes and class warfare. Homes have been bombed; plants terrorized. Men who objected to dictation have found that the boss of the union hiring hall had absolute power to say whether they should work or remain idle.

Farmers have learned something of the arrogance of radical despots when their crops have rotted waiting for ships; when they have been refused the right to unload their own trucks and handle their own produce in city markets; when they have been threatened with ruin through the cry of "hot cargo" because they refused to accede to arbitrary demands that meant heavy losses and possible bankruptcy. But California farmers, fortunately, have refused to be browbeaten and have made considerable progress in their drive to restore sanity and reason in the field of labor relations.

And California farm workers, when they read Curran's defense of Communism, need to pause and take time, perhaps, to read the day's news from Moscow. Whether "the march inland" by radical agitators and direct actionists is halted, will depend, in the final analysis, on the action of both workers and employers. The pendulum has swung back in Seattle with the defeat of Mayor Dore, who frankly took dictation from Seattle's labor boss, Dave Beck. In other cities, terrorists and thugs employed to intimidate workers and employers have been jailed. But in California, the cause of reason and fair play still needs militant support—both from workers and employers.

BASEBALL TEAM

Weather permitting, Campbell high's baseball club is slated to open its 1938 season here Friday afternoon. The local nine is scheduled to meet Santa Clara, but negotiations are under way to postpone the Santa Clara Valley Athletic league opening until March 25. If this is done and if the rain holds off, Campbell will play a practice game with a San Jose team, according to Coach Steve Casaleggio.

Despite the fact that rains have made only a few workouts possible Campbell will have a promising club on the diamond Friday. Designated, catcher; Leverton or Andrews, pitcher; Bagoye, first base; Wada, second base; Goldstone, third base; Lobrovich, short stop; Hedegard, right field; Frank, left field; and Klichen, center field will start for the locals.

Campbell's complete schedule of league games for this season follows: March 18, Santa Clara here; March 25, Fremont there; April 1, Los Gatos here; April 8, San Jose Tech there; April 22, Live Oak here; April 29, Mt. How Modern Tree Surgeons Parallel Doctors of Medicine In Saving Lives of 'Patients'

MODERN tree surgeons are careful with their "patients" as the average doctor of medicine. The main differences are (1) tree surgeons don't use anaesthetic and (2) the patient submits without being stretched out on an operating table. Among America's foremost tree surgeons is George Van Yahres, who has carried on and modernized the technique developed by the father of Martin L. Davey, present governor of Ohio.

Only recently has American tree surgery come into its own, popularized by the ever-growing trend to conservation. Once men were glad to destroy worm-eaten and ailing trees; now they protect them, for trees are not as plentiful as they used to be.

In these pictures Mr. Van Yahres shows FOTO-FEATURE readers how his skilled crew of surgeons restore life and vigor to sickly trees, following step by step the practices of up-to-date human surgery in hospitals. Below he makes his "diagnosis," examining the bark or "skin" of the tree where symptoms indicate there is decay. Vibrations from hammer taps tell him where the trouble is centered. This is the first step.

UNLIKE the M. D., a tree surgeon can't choose his working place. Incisions are made with chisels and mallets, being kept clean and small. Next (above) assistants clean out decayed matter.

LEFT: Human bones sometimes need bracing, and so does the "skeleton" of a tree. Hence strong bolts are inserted after the cavity has been cleaned out. Power-driven drills make quick, clean (and painless, we presume) holes for the braces. Above: Here is the variety of instruments—each with a definite purpose—which must be at the tree surgeon's finger tips. Doesn't this layout resemble the trays of instruments in an operating room?

AFTER the wound is cleaned, a lacquer antiseptic is painted on the inside and a waxy mixture is placed in the cavity. "Sewing up" the wound is a delicate step (see above). Van Yahres experimented with several substances until engineers of the B. F. Goodrich laboratories developed for him a special vulcanized rubber block which takes the place of sutures used to make stitches on human bodies: Left: Finally the operation is complete, the wound "sewed" and dressed and the "patient" on its way to recovery. The tree shown here has begun to roll back its bark over the incision. In time the wound will close completely.

EVEN plastic surgery has its parallel in the tree surgery business, says Mr. Van Yahres. The step illustrated at the left took place during the above operation. A worker is buffing the rubber sutures with a power-driven wire brush, making the finished surface blend with the tree bark. And (right) wounds in trees drain, just as they do in humans, aided by a tube.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

Lady Pulls Strings in Duce Deal

NEW YORK.—The absence of salon diplomacy or petticoat politics in the European struggle for a new power balance would be an oversight by the muse of history, reading the drama of the century, and at last it seems to have been attended to.

Enter Lady Chamberlain, the cleverest woman politician in England, widow of Sir Austen, obscurely noted in the news as mysteriously busy for the last few months in the British-Italian rapprochement.

Several weeks ago, a sagacious traveler of this writer's acquaintance, back from Rome, reported Lady Chamberlain as adroitly fostering an understanding with Britain which would bring recognition of Ethiopia and a two-way split on Spain and the Mediterranean. She has been in Rome since November, in intimate social intercourse with the more important Fascist moguls.

For many years, she has been known as the "most perfect political hostess" in London and has been subtly influential in many big deals in continental diplomacy. It was she who cooked up the Locarno conference, at Lake Maggiore, in Switzerland, in 1925.

When the delegates were haggling, she packed some hampers and invited Sir Austen, Briand and Stresemann to the most important picnic in all history.

In her handsome little yacht, they disappeared around a bend in the lake, landed in a secluded spot, and, with the aid of three jurists, re-rigged Europe.

Whatever came out of the conference, for good or ill, is traced to that picnic. When she returned to England, she was made Dame of the Grand Cross of the British Empire.

She is a comely matron of sixty-two, married to Sir Austen in 1906. He was fourteen years older. She was Ivy Dundas of one of the leading political families of England.

In the earlier years of their marriage, she was credited with having coached her husband in the ultra-English mannerisms which all of the great Birmingham family found it expedient to master when they moved to London. She is said to have been his political as well as his social mentor, and frequently electrified in her campaigns.

Lady Chamberlain is an extreme conservative and is believed to have nurtured plans for a British alliance with the Absolutist powers. She has an extraordinary flair for dramatic political stage-settings and delicate sensitivity to political currents. Italy conferred on her the Gold Medal of Merit.

G-Men On Front Page in Spy Hunt

THE New York spy round-up by the federal bureau of investigation marks the first front-page work-out of the G-men as an ally of the secret service.

An attache of the latter told me in Washington last summer that J. Edgar Hoover's organization, developed in post-war years, would be an invaluable aid to this country's defenses against foreign espionage, and that, in the event of trouble, actual or impending, no foreign country could hope to duplicate Germany's exploit in sabotage, propaganda and spying before our entry into the World war.

Reed Vetterli, in short pants when the World war started, heads the New York office of the F. B. I. and deploys his 75 agents in a red-hot spy scenario, in which they score as usual, with indications today that this is just the overture.

Six feet tall, blond, reticent, Mr. Vetterli is a veteran of the F. B. I. war against thugs and kidnapers, in the bureau since 1926, in charge of 18 offices in his 11 years of service.

He was born in Salt Lake City in 1903, and took his law degree at the University of Washington in 1925. In 1933, he was wounded in the Kansas City massacre, trading shots with Pretty Boy Floyd's gangsters.

He has participated in most of the bureau's famous kidnaping, vice and bank robbery cases. He succeeded Rhea Whitley as head of the New York office on September 11, 1937. He has a reputation in the bureau for always having an airtight case against anyone he arrests.

CALIFORNIA News of the Week

Bank To Build Jackson Branch

San Francisco.—The Bank of America announced plans for the construction of a new bank building in Jackson, Amador County, and the modernization of its building in Gridley, Butte County. Construction work on the Jackson building will be commenced as soon as the weather conditions permit.

Brite Plea to U. S. Court

Sacramento.—Governor Merriam announced he probably will forward to the United States Supreme Court the application of John and Coke Brite, for a commutation of death sentence, although the Advisory Padon Board recommended against clemency. The Brites are sentenced to be hanged at Folsom. They were granted a reprieve until April 15 by the Governor, but since this date falls on Good Friday, the Governor indicated a further reprieve was in prospect.

Postmaster for 41 Years Dead

Rescue (El Dorado Co.).—William Henry Carpenter, 86, the postmaster at Rescue for forty-one years, died at his home here. Friends said he was the second oldest postmaster in the State. Carpenter was born in Adrian, Mich., in 1852, and as a youth of 19 came to El Dorado County, where he followed mining. In 1896 he accepted the job as assistant postmaster in Rescue and two years later was appointed postmaster.

Woman, 90, Becomes Citizen

San Francisco.—A 90-year-old woman, Mrs. Julia Sullivan Judge, became San Francisco's oldest brand new citizen last week, 73 years after coming here to make her home. Strangely, Mrs. Judge has voted in elections for many years, believing that she had become an American citizen when she married Frank W. Judge in Virginia City, Nev., in 1876. Not until 1930, when Mrs. Judge, long a widow, applied to the State for assistance, was her citizenship status questioned. So she applied for citizenship anew, saying "I want to be a citizen of the United States before I die."

More Storms Forecast for State

San Jose.—More storms for California in March and April were prophesied by Albert J. Newlin, director of the Santa Clara observatory. Pointing to a succession of sunspots racing across the face of the sun, Dr. Newlin said the famous Ricard sunspot theory indicates further wet weather this season with even greater turbulence for the next several Winters. He declared: "The Ricard theory that eleven year cycles of increasing and decreasing outbursts on the sun's surface govern weather, electrical and earthquake conditions on the earth is in process of being verified daily. The present peak will be reached some time in the early '40s and until that time not only California but the entire world may expect unusual weather and other disturbances."

Cities Fight Over Capital

San Jose.—A movement instituted by Monterey to transfer the State capital back to Monterey, where it existed for 76 years under Spanish and Mexican rule, will be opposed by San Jose, according to Russell Pettit, chamber of commerce manager. "If the capital is moved to anywhere it should come to San Jose," he declared. "San Jose was the first capital under American rule and has a stronger claim than Monterey." Monterey's supporters claim that less than half of the State's population live within 300 miles of Sacramento, while 90 per cent live within 300 miles of Monterey.

F. R. Orders Flood Loans

Washington.—President Roosevelt directed Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to grant rehabilitation loans for reconstruction of the flood area of Southern California. Mr. Roosevelt acted after receiving a telegram asking such assistance from Governor Merriam of California.

Stanford U. Financial Report

Palo Alto.—Stanford University, in its report to alumni, revealed total assets of around $47,000,000, of which $32,090,206 represented income-producing investment. Earnings assets consisted of $18,706,661 bonds, $3,488,852 preferred stocks and $2,343,136 common stocks.

California's Indians Feared

San Francisco.—A German sailor told naturalization officials here that his wife is afraid to come to California to live because of the Indians. The 37-year-old seaman, Adolph Heinrich George Raediker, was admitted to citizenship. He told Naturalization Examiner Stanley Johnson he is anxious to have his oldest son, 17, come to America before he is drafted into the army. But so far, he hasn't been able to persuade the boy's mother to leave.

Start right now, for even if there's a shiver in the air at this moment, Easter is not very far off! And you'll want to be ready!

Dress With Lifted Waistline.

This is a very, very popular fashion because it makes you look so slim and graceful, what with the waistline high in front, and soft gathers above it, the gently flaring skirt. Made up in a pretty print or silk crepe, it will be lovely for Easter and for all Spring. Be sure to wear a bunch of flowers at the neckline.

A Jumper Frock for Girls.

This is one of the sweetest and most becoming styles ever invented for girls of school age, just about the time they begin to shoot up so fast that you can almost see them grow! Make the jumper of linen, gingham or percale, and why not make two or three blouses to go with it? One of linen, one of dimity, and one of organdie.

Everybody Likes Dirndl Frock.

The square neckline, the full rippling skirt and tight little waist, are so flattering to slim figures! Here's a charming dirndl with just the right air of quaintness and freshness about it. Choose a gay flowered print, or a cheerful plain color, pale or bright. But be sure, whether you make it up in silk or cotton, to choose a crisp fabric so that the skirt will flare as it should.

A Pig Was to Blame

By the disobedience of a lad in 1809, a garden gate in Rhode Island was left open, and a pig got in and destroyed a few plants. A quarrel between the owners of the garden and the pig resulted, which spread among their friends, defeated the Federal candidate for the legislature, and gave the state a senator by whose vote war was declared in 1812 with Great Britain.—Pat Paragraphs.

"YOU BET WE'RE ENJOYIN' OUR 'MAKIN'S' SMOKES—NOW!"

"JUST GOT A MESSAGE from up the line," says telegrapher Jim Redmond (center). "They're all shut in by a big fall of snow. But they don't care. The boys say they've got plenty of Prince Albert 'makin's' tobacco—and they're sure tickled with it. They didn't know tobacco could be so mild, yet so full-bodied and rich tastin'."

As he listens to the receiving set click out

"Prince Albert for mine," the fellow in the leather jacket says: "We know what they mean. We're all gettin' the firmest, roundest 'makin's' smokes a man ever twirled. That P.A. crimp cut sure lays right."

"What a shame," puts in Chester Odell (he's on the left), "that I wasted my time before gettin' on to Prince Albert. But you bet I'm enjoyin' my 'makin's' smokes—NOW!"

WE'VE GOT FASTER-ROLLIN', MILD, TASTIER TOBACCO."

THE way that "crimp cut" Prince Albert hugs the paper, you know it's made to order for "makin's" smokers. There's no spilling or blowing around—no bunching either. Naturally, a tobacco that lays and rolls so good, draws swell, too—burns slow, cool. (Grand for pipes—try it!)

If you don't find them the finest, tastiest roll-your-own cigarettes you ever smoked, return the pocket tin with the rest of the tobacco in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund full purchase price, plus postage. Dial-ers Disappointed Over Program Switch

Scores of listeners in this valley had their radios tuned to hear the Musical Camera program Sunday afternoon, when Stephen Merrill was scheduled to sing two solos. Instead of hearing that, the local station was switched to release a speech, much to the annoyance of a large audience. If the senator's talk had contained anything which, although unimportant, was new, people would have been more reconciled.
The part of Stephen's song that was heard was very fine, and the closing orchestration arranged by Cherniasky was pleasing.
We hope for better luck next time, Steve.

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Muterole - soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.
Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly. Better than a cold-moisture plaster, Muterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's, and Extra Strong.
